Hybrid = Online + Face-to-Face

The Spanish Conference on Fuzzy Logic and Technology (ESTYLF) is interested in all approaches to Fuzzy Logic and its Applications, and will be a forum to discuss recent results and ideas related with this research area.

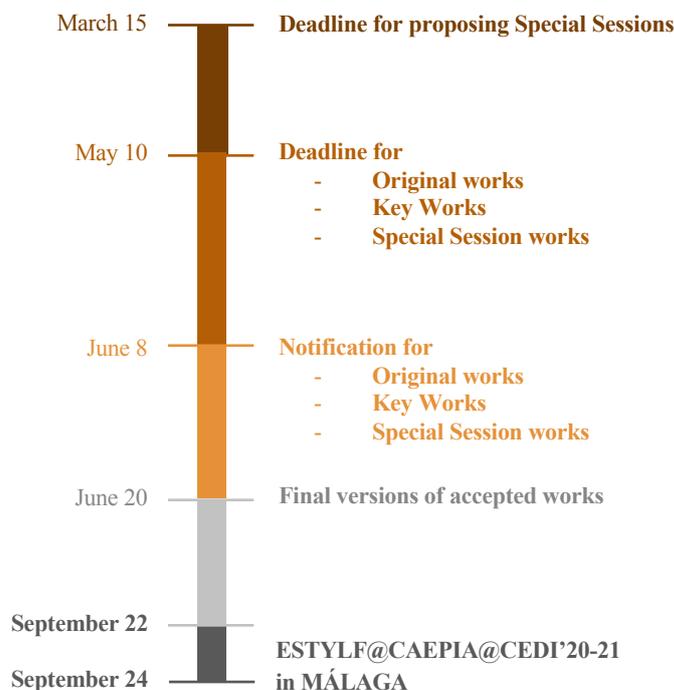

This edition, ESTYLF'20-21 (postponed due to the pandemic), will be organized under the umbrella of the Conference of the Spanish Association for Artificial Intelligence (CAEPIA) which, in turn, is part of the Spanish Congress of Informatics (CEDI), to be held in Málaga in hybrid format (online and face-to-face).

The following is a non-exhaustive list of interesting topics for ESTYLF:

- Foundation of fuzzy logic	- Models and techniques of aggregation of information	- Computing with words
- Modelling of uncertainty	- Fuzzy databases	- System modelling
- Knowledge acquisition and representation	- Fuzzy logic and data mining	- Fuzzy control
- Approximate reasoning	- Information retrieval	- Hardware for fuzzy logic
- Decision making	- Intelligent systems in the web	- Hybrid systems: evolving, neural ...
		- Applications.

TYPES OF CONTRIBUTIONS

- Original unpublished works of up to six pages should be submitted in IEEE format written in Spanish or English (available templates in Word and LaTeX).
- Key works published recently in prestigious journals. Papers should be submitted in IEEE format of up to two pages, with a clear reference to the previously published work.
- ESTYLF'20-21 is open to the proposals of special sessions (deadline March 15)
- Submission of papers to ESTYLF'20-21 requires a previous registration in the EasyChair system.
